

APPOINTMENT AS HONORARY ALMONER
The Worshipful Company of Management Consultants

On 18th October 2012, at the Installation Dinner for Geoffrey Llewellyn, the new Master of the Worshipful Company of Management Consultants, Gill King was made Honorary Almoner and was presented with the Almoner's badge newly gifted to the Company by Mary Collis, Immediate Past Master. Gill succeeded Adrian Williams who had held and developed the role for eight years. Gill's role is to be available to members of the Company during times of illness and to their partners and families at times of bereavement. In particular, the role is to keep in touch with dormant Freeman who are no longer able to attend Company events due to ill health and to widows/partners of previous members.

Gill is also broadening the role to be available as a "listening ear" to members of the Company who may be going through turmoil or hardship in their lives and feel they would benefit from an understanding and confidential discussion with her.

Gill's many years in HR/Personnel and her personal experiences have given her a wealth of knowledge and experience to draw on in both an empathetic and a practical way. Her idea of the role is to be an approachable and supportive resource for members. Her contact details are on the Company's website.

With Geoffrey Llewellyn, Master, Worshipful Company of Management Consultants